

EXPLORE WATERCOLOR IN A MINI FORMAT

Don't have time or space for a large painting? Try a small or mini format. Yes, that's right a mini format. Professional artists use tiny value studies to plan their larger paintings all the time. It helps organize their thoughts about mood, color harmony, and overall design. You can learn just as much from several small paintings as a larger piece. Bring a couple pictures you would like to attempt. We can discuss which will work best and why. How to simplify, color enhance, or shift the focal point to tune your picture up. Paint a special card for the holidays, a birthday, or frame it for yourself.

Join in Wednesdays 10-12am from Oct 23 through Nov 13 to explore small watercolors in a big way. Class is Free! Bring your own supplies, (watercolor paper or pad, pencil, waterproof pen (preferably black), erasure, watercolors and brushes) or use ours at a minimal cost. Class size limited. Please sign-up at desk.
